in a Week

BERT BANYEA VICTIM

He Was in Swimming With a Young
Companion When He Was Seen
to Sink—Did Not Rise Again.

St. Albans, July 17.—The third fatality in St. Albans within a week occurred last evening at 7.30 o'clock when Bert Banyea, aged 13, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Banyea, was drowned at St. Albans Bay while in swimming with a companion, named Guyette, son of Nelson Guyette. The body was recovered half an hour afterwards.

Young Banyea was swimming near the kerosene dock when he was seen to go down. Joe Coveau and Oakley Longway, who were watching the boy, at once jumped into the water to save the boy, but he did not come to the surface after going down. Capt. Rockwell of the steamer docked nearby procured a grappling iron and after half an hour's effort brought the body to the surface in ten feet of water.

The boy leaves, besides his parents, one sister and several brothers.

ONLY ONE CLASH.

During Night Between Pittsburg Rioters and Troops.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 17.—The strike situation at the Pressed Steel Car company's plant in McKees Rocks was quiet but ominous at midnight. For the first time since the strike began, the strikers snatched a few hours' sleep. Throughout the early part of the evening every house occupied by strikers and their families in McKees Rocks was searched for firearms but the hunt was fruitless.

With an outlook for a riotous time today following the official declaration of President Roosevelt that he would neither treat with nor reinstate the striking men, the authorities have laid their plans to cope with a serious situation. To one clash of the night occurred between a deputy sheriff and a crowd of strikers' sympathizers. The deputy was on his way to his home and when surrounded by angry strikers pulled his revolver and fired into the crowd. He reported that he had wounded three of the men and that the injured men had been dragged into hiding by their comrades.

RECORD BALL GAME
WITH NO SCORES

Detroit and Washington Battled 18 Innings Yesterday Afternoon When Game Had to Be Called.

Detroit, Mich., July 17.—Detroit and Washington yesterday played what is believed to be a record game for consecutive scoreless innings in a major league contest the game being called at the end of the 18th, 0 to 0. Summers pitched for Detroit, and backed by brilliant fielding was never in real danger of being scored on. He struck out ten men and was at his best when errors put him at a disadvantage. Gray, for Washington, went into the ninth inning with a record of but one hit against him. In the ninth, while pitching, he strained his side and was forced to retire. Groom succeeded him and did remarkable work in pitching and fielding.

DEMOCRATIC SOLONS
WON A VICTORY

But It Was On The Base Ball Diamond and Not The Halls of Legislation

The Score Was 26 to 16.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—With Uncle Joe Cannon looking on and powerless to call the minority to order, or bring in a special rule shutting off base hits, Democrats of the House of Representatives wallowed all sorts of tariff schedules out of the Republicans at American league park yesterday and won the most famous Congressional base ball game on record by the thrilling score of 26 to 16. The majority wanted to make it 16 to 1 but the Republicans defeated that proposition once again.

The Democratic victory—the first of the extra session—was followed by a cloudburst. The deluge did not descend until the seven inning battle had ended with the stout members all puffing and blowing from running, basing and chasing balls and the team members prone on the grass from exhausted energy. The crowd which witnessed this game which will live in the annals of the House was equally weary—from laughter. The throng included most of the distinguished government officials and many of the leading members of the House.

FATALLY HURT
IN RUNAWAYRev. William Wiley Dead at South Ryegate

WHERE HE WAS VISITING

He Drove His Horse Past an Auto and Because the Animal Showed Spirit He Applied the Whip.

South Ryegate, July 17.—As the result of injuries sustained in a runaway accident last Sunday, William Wiley died yesterday afternoon, having sustained the fracture of three ribs and the heart being affected by the fracture. His sister, Miss Jane W. Wiley, was in the carriage with him but escaped with a serious shaking up.

The clergyman had been attending a funeral and was driving home when he met an automobile. Although he drove by the machine safely the horse danced around considerably and the minister laid on the whip. This caused the animal to bolt and become unmanageable, both occupants being thrown out and striking the ground heavily. Mr. Wiley got up and walked half a mile to his destination and did not call a physician until the following day. When the doctor arrived he gave little hope of recovery because of the serious nature of the injuries. The patient lingered along until yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Wiley had come to Vermont from New York state, where he was engaged in preaching, to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Jeanette Cole, her funeral having been held a week ago Thursday. He was staying meanwhile at the home of another sister, Mrs. Anne Ritchie. Mrs. Wiley was called here, arriving the night before her husband died.

The deceased was born in Stratford and spent his early life on Jefferson Hill in Newbury, attending the seminary. He had been a preacher since the early 70's. He was twice married. He leaves his widow and two small children. The burial will be at South Ryegate but the arrangements have not been completed.

PREJUDICE SHOWN

Burlington and Winooski People Have Been Known to Even Forego a Hot
Steak When Negro Soldiers
Entered Restaurant.

Burlington, July 17.—Race prejudice has become evident since the colored troops have arrived at Fort Ethan Allen and promises to become more violent when the full regiment arrives. White people here have left various restaurants when the eating houses were invaded by the colored contingent in Winooski, when some of the white troops rounded up the colored boys, put them in a car and sent them to the post. People are now crying for "Jim Crow" cars to be run between here and Fort Ethan Allen.

DIED VERY SUDDENLY.

John McAllister of St. Albans Probably Had a Shock.

St. Albans, July 17.—The death of John McAllister occurred at about six o'clock last evening at the home of James Pucell on Stebbins street, where he had roomed. Mr. McAllister's death was unexpected and is supposed to have resulted from a shock. On Wednesday he began working in the Central Vermont machine shops, but Thursday noon he complained of feeling ill and went home. He stayed around the house all day yesterday and late in the afternoon Mr. Pucell became alarmed at his heavy breathing and tried to enter his room to find out what was the matter. The door was bolted and when it was forced open, McAllister was found on the bed unconscious. Medical aid was hurriedly summoned, but he died in less than an hour without recovering consciousness. Mr. McAllister was a native of this place where he was born 69 years ago. As a young man he was employed in the old rolling mill and later was a fireman on the Central Vermont. For the past 20 years he has been in Texas and other southern states where he was employed as an engineer. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias and was unmarried. He is survived by two brothers, Charles McAllister of this city and Robert McAllister of Salt Lake City, Utah, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Dugan of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Mary Falls of Ellendale, South Dakota.

BIG DEAL IS IN VIEW.

Capitalists Are Getting Interested in Vermont Marble.

Rutland, July 17.—A marble deal which will effect the exchange of several pieces of property is in the air and although nothing definite can be learned it is understood that the transaction when completed, will be one of the largest ever pulled off in this section. For the last few days marble men and capitalists from all over the country have been making Rutland their headquarters. Rumors are afloat that George C. Underhill and associates have purchased the Raleigh marble quarry at Pittsford, a valuable piece of property which yields blue marble of excellent quality.

Mr. Underhill, when approached concerning the sale of the Raleigh property said there was nothing definite decided as yet. The Raleigh quarry is situated in the west part of the town of Pittsford and was formerly run in connection with the Columbian mill. When this mill closed the quarry shot down. It is rumored that Mr. Underhill and others purchased the property Wednesday of the owners, George T. and Newman K. Chaffee and F. R. Patch of this city and the Raleigh estate. It is said that a large sum was paid for the property.

The Raleigh quarry will be worked in connection with the old Columbian quarry at Proctor. This quarry, when the mill was closed, was yielding a poor quality of marble. Since Mr. Underhill has had charge of it he has uncovered a large vein of marble that promises to be of excellent quality. Under the old management the Columbian quarry was worked to the south and Mr. Underhill is opening up towards the north with fine results.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR
SUED FOR DAMAGES

Three Middlebury Parents Take Matter
Into Court Against Prof. E. A.

Burt for Chastising Their Offspring.

Middlebury, July 17.—Olney A. Comstock, Mrs. Angie Merritt and Nelson Goss brought suits yesterday in trespass for $50 each against E. A. Burt, professor of natural history at Middlebury College, for injuries alleged to have been received by their children last Tuesday. The children are Ruth Comstock, aged 12, Henry Merritt, age 16, and Ernest Goss, 16, all small for their age.

Tuesday Prof. Burt saw the party on the bank of Otter Creek near his garden and being incensed at recent depredations there, it is alleged, used the young people rather roughly. The boys and girl deny having trespassed on the professor's premises. The case is set for hearing Saturday, July 24.

RUTLAND IS AMBITIOUS.

Wants to Get D. & H. Railroad Shops,
Moved from Whitehall.

Rutland, July 17.—Following the announcement that the Delaware & Hudson railroad is to discontinue its terminal at Whitehall, N. Y., and to shut down the shops there and possibly move them elsewhere, Mayor H. O. Carpenter, on behalf of the Rutland Improvement league, hastened to get in touch with D. & H. officials to see if Rutland could not offer some inducement whereby the city would be benefited by the change which would move the shops and switching to the center of the town.

The mayor wired, stating that Rutland was willing to do what was right in the matter of offering a site or other conditions to bring more D. & H. business here.

The change, which was brought about by a request on the part of Whitehall citizens that the shops and switching be removed from the center of the town, means the loss of work to a good many hands besides the benefits that are to be derived from several train crews making the place their headquarters.

The railroad has moved the terminus to Saratoga for the present, but two or three train crews will make headquarters in Rutland even though the road should not take up with Rutland's offer to select this city as a permanent terminus.

There are several sites in this city adjacent to railroad property which would make a good location for the shops should they be taken away from Whitehall.

BURGLAR FIRED REVOLVER.

Entrance, However, Was Not Made at Jordan Bros. Store

Jericho Center, July 17.—An attempt to burglarize the store of Jordan Bros. was made early yesterday morning. E. B. Jordan, who lives in the house next the store, was awakened about 1:30 by noises on the store veranda. On calling out the window one of the burglars warned him to keep inside and emphasized the words with a shot from his revolver.

Before Mr. Jordan and others in the house got outside, the burglars had fled, leaving their tools behind them. Two chisels were left in the crack of the door which was still locked. The tools found had been taken from the blacksmith shop of F. M. Haskins, which had been entered by breaking the padlock. Two of more men were heard to run away by several villagers after the shot was fired.

ONE DOLLAR
AND FEW CENTSAll the Loot Secured at Central Vermont Station

EARLY THIS MORNING

Window Glass Smashed and Catch Was Released, Allowing Easy Access Between Departure of Midnight Train and Arrival of 1.15 a. m.

The ticket office at the Central Vermont passenger station was broken into between 12 and 1 o'clock last night and a dollar bill and less than fifty cents in pennies were stolen from the money drawer. No attempt was made by the thief to break into the ticket or baggage case. After trying to pry open one of the outside windows of the office with a screw driver, the thief finally broke the glass beside the window fastener. Reaching his hand through the glass he then turned the fastener and pushed up the window.

Access to the money drawer was made by prying off the front of the drawer. The money is taken from the drawer every night by the ticket clerk, Mrs. C. L. Beest, when she closes the office, except what few loose pennies there may happen to be. Last night she took in a dollar bill after she had collected the money from the drawer and this she left in the drawer. Otherwise there would have been only a few pennies to compensate the robber for all his trouble.

The break was discovered by Officer Harry Gamble who went to the station to meet the 1:15 train, as is his custom. In passing the window he noticed the broken glass. The officer at once telephoned to the station agent, O. L. Beest, who came and investigated the robbery and found that nothing had been molested but the money drawer.

Officer Gamble states that the break must have been made after the 11:35 train left as he was at the station then and the window was not broken. As Officer Gamble was going to the station to meet the 1:15 train he saw a boy standing on the station platform and after he discovered the break he hunted for the boy and found him on the shifting engine in the yard with the night watchman. The boy denied all knowledge of the robbery and after searching his clothes and finding only a few cents in his pockets the officer let him go. The officer and the station agent are of the opinion that the break was made by some boy or boys.

SUSPENDS WORK
ON STREETBy Vote of City Council in a Special Meeting

ON PETITIONERS' PROTEST

Those Who Favor Macadam for North
Main Street Will be Given Chance to Put in a Word as Well as Granite Advocates.

By vote of the city council in special meeting last night the work of macadamizing North Main street will be suspended until Monday night when another special meeting of the council will be held to permit the advocates of macadam to present their case by petition or otherwise to counteract the petition presented by 43 men and business firms last night against the use of macadam and in favor of granite. Last night's meeting held excellent possibilities for acrimonious debate among the members and between the members and citizens who appeared; but everybody put the lid on themselves before the heated stage was really reached.

There was considerable plain talk nevertheless, with Chairman Thurston of the street committee and Alderman Alexander contributing the most of it. Alderman Thurston defended the actions of the street committee in proceeding with the work of macadamizing the street, while Alderman Alexander intimated that they must have had a great deal of self-assurance to go ahead when it was evident that the council stood now 5 against macadam to two in favor, the two being Alderman Thurston and Campbell.

Alderman Alexander stated that the motion to macadamize the street was carried 4 to 3 and since that time Aldermen Hoyt and Ewen, who had voted for the resolution, had made efforts to have the motion reconsidered, only to have their wishes blocked by Alderman Thurston who had stated their motions were out of order, that the vote could not be reconsidered. After this latter remark, Alderman Thurston stated that he would do the same thing if the opportunity came again.

His position for this, he said, lay in the fact that rules which the council adopted for their guidance had nothing to say about reconsideration but did say that where other exigencies arose they were to be guided by Cushing's manual. Now Cushing's manual, explained Alderman Thurston, stated that where the rules do not explicitly state what majority shall be able to demand a reconsideration a "general consent" is required. It was evident that Alderman Thurston's part of the "general consent" had not been secured.

Ex-Alderman R. S. Currier, who spoke later in the evening, declared it nonsense for a man to say that a body of this sort couldn't reconsider its vote. Cushing's manual or no Cushing's manual. He took the occasion to point out two other methods of procedure by which the resolution to macadamize the street might be killed, either by adopting another resolution (citing an illustration of several years ago) or by moving to amend the rules governing the city council.

Mr. Currier furthermore said it was not right to go ahead with macadamizing the street unless the street committee was prepared to state to the people exactly what they proposed to do. He mentioned a lot of details of road-making which ought to be settled, and he asked if the street committee had attended to them. Alderman Thurston thought this sort of reflection on the street committee and he retorted that they had done as well as they could for men who were not expecting to draw $500 a year salary.

But to get back to the first part of the story, Alderman Thurston had moved that a chance be given the supporters of macadam to put in their word along with the others and he moved that the pro-granite petition be received and placed on file, adding that he considered a motion passed by the city council to suspend work, would be a powerful enough for he didn't think the street committee was bigger than the city council.

Alderman Alexander thought there wouldn't be any need for a hearing if, having held the hearing, the council couldn't reconsider its former resolve to macadamize. He thought also that the pro-macadam people might have been present last night. The motion to receive the petition of the pro-granite people and place it on file until the others could take some similar action was finally carried, after which Alderman Campbell moved that the work on the street be suspended until Monday night. Also carried.

As the council is now lined up on the question, Mayor Robbins and Aldermen Ewen, Alexander, Hoyt and Rossi are in favor of granite blocks, while they are opposed by Aldermen Thurston and Campbell.

All those present at The Comique last night enjoyed one of the best programs of pictures ever seen at one time in this theater. Every picture is a feature of perfection and quality in itself. The two Biograph subjects are very good. The other two pictures caused the audience a continuous laugh throughout the entire production. Taken in all it was one of the most enjoyable and entertaining displays of motion pictures one would wish to see
